Local endogenous development and urban regeneration of small alpine towns

AlpCity focuses on local development and urban regeneration of small alpine towns. The project aims at promoting a common understanding, a cultural and political change, through a large trans-national partnership and different groups of activities including:

- Networking, know-how and experiences' exchange to foster a common knowledge and innovative strategies on project's issues
- Collection of local best practices, innovative project-cases with reference to local endogenous sustainable development
- Dissemination and communication activities
- Policy guidelines and vision for future scenarios

AlpCity project is implemented by
